Dear Authors,

Your manuscript about the Consumption of beverages among secondary and intermediate students is exciting and well-performed, but some parts need to be better structured.

In the introduction, it is necessary to clearly emphasize the research's subject, task, and goal.

Study design and settings must be supplemented with details about the created survey and examples of research based on it.

The conclusion must be supplemented with research limitations, suggestions for future research, and implications.

The use of literature must be supplemented, and sources older than ten years must not be represented by more than 10% of the total number of literature references.

Good luck
