

Review of: "What are you lookin' at?: A role for sexual conflict in coevolution of female display signals and male sensory adaptations?"

Andre De Souza, Luan Dias Lima

Potential competing interests: The author(s) declared that no potential competing interests exist.

Well-written and straightforward manuscript. Authors provided evidence for a coevolution between female sexual ornaments and male eyes, taking into account other potential explanations for the observed results. We appreciated that authors performed different analyses to test for potential confounding variables and the results remained robust and consistent across them.

As the only and minor suggestion we have to offer is to put species names in figure 1A in italics.
