Title and Keywords: The title is clear and reflects the focus of the study. However, consider making "Blended Learning Approach" consistent throughout the title, abstract, and keywords, as it is currently mentioned in both full and abbreviated forms.

Introduction:

- The introduction provides a good overview of the study's objectives and research questions. It introduces the concept of Blended Learning Approach (BLA) well.
- It would be helpful to provide some context regarding the importance of studying BLA in the context of Tanzania's secondary education. Why is it relevant or necessary? This can help readers understand the significance of the study.

Literature Review:

- The literature review could benefit from a more extensive examination of prior research related to BLA adoption in secondary schools, both globally and specifically in Tanzania.
- Cite more recent sources if available, as the field of educational technology and blended learning is evolving rapidly.

Methodology:

- The methodology section provides a clear description of the research design and data collection methods. However, it would be helpful to include more details about the sample selection process and criteria for selecting the 76 respondents.
- Consider adding more information about the ethical considerations in the research, such as obtaining informed consent from the participants.

Results:

- The results section summarizes key findings, but it could be more detailed. Provide more information about specific responses and quotes from the participants to illustrate the points made.
- It would be beneficial to include some statistical data, such as percentages or means, to quantify the extent of positive attitudes and the level of BLA application.

Discussion:

- The discussion section should be more in-depth and provide a deeper analysis of the results. Explain the implications of the findings in more detail.
- Consider discussing how the challenges, such as poor infrastructure and lack of institutional support, can be addressed or improved to promote BLA.

Conclusion:

- The conclusion provides a succinct summary of the study's main findings. However, it could be more explicit in terms of the practical implications of the research.
- Suggest including recommendations for educators, policymakers, and other stakeholders on how to enhance BLA adoption in Tanzania's secondary schools.
