The article's quality needs to be improved for publishing. I give you some recommendations:

- Abstract must include localization of the study and period of field work, as well as the methodology of research.
- It would be interesting to replace these keywords with DECS.
- Rewrite the literature review to avoid summarizing the text.
- It is absolutely necessary to define the population of the study, the university, and the time of field work in the Methodology section.
- Define all the variables of the study, not only the noise level. Pay special attention to the result variable: the academic performance, which is not defined in the article.
- Hypotheses are repeated in the text.
- Bibliographical references must be cited in the text. I don't found them.
