

Review of: "Determinants of Women Entrepreneurs' Business Performance: Evidence from Micro and Small-Scale Enterprises in Arba Minch Town, Southern Ethiopia"

Taha Almarayeh

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Reviewer decision

I was invited to review the article entitled "Determinants of Women Entrepreneurs' Business Performance: Evidence from Micro and Small-Scale Enterprises in Arab Minch Town, Southern Ethiopia?" which you submitted to the Qeios.

I congratulate the authors for the effort made to move this research project forward.

1. Paper has to include several sections and generally starts with the introduction part in which the problem has to be set and objectives of the paper and contributions to the literature have to be clearly mentioned.
2. What about contributions? I would suggest that this section either be expanded to include more useful information on Ethiopia.
3. Another important section of the paper is the literature review, which is so vital to evaluate the previous works, summarize and compare the ideas of the other authors and find the gap about the subject. But, in this paper authors do not consider the whole studies.
4. The authors should expand the conclusion. The authors devote this section to present their findings. This section should include a brief recap of the findings and a clear discussion of policy implications. The conclusion is intended to help the reader understand why your research should matter to them after they have finished reading the paper.

The paper is satisfactory.

Good luck.