

Review of: "Examining Water Use and Sanitation Practices in Rural Schools of Chegutu District, Mashonaland West Province, Zimbabwe"

Maasago Mercy Sepadi¹

¹ Tshwane University of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

ABSTRACT:

Background

- state atleast one sentence showing problem statement. The sentence should explain the current status of WASH in Zimbabwe.

The methodology should be clearly outlined

- it should show which type of study design it is.
- Add the type of software analysis/programs' used.
- secondary data method not used.

Results

- include the quantitative data you have in the abstract. the gender statistics should be reported here
- WASH/water usage quantitative data is needed here.

METHODOLOGY

- Sampling and sample size section should come after area or population description. before Data collection.

3.1. Study area:

- Write (figure 3.1)- The figure , first letter should be in capital letter. All figures and tables , their first letter should be written in capital letter

Data analysis

- The data analysis is not sufficient, which software programs did you use to compute your qualitative and quantitative data
- Which statistics were used in those programs

Add limitations of the study as a section after conclusion