Review of: "AI in Healthcare: The New Frontier of Inequality"

Julia Astrid Moldt[1]

1 Eberhard-Karls-Universität Tübingen

The current state of the paper leans more towards a commentary rather than a research article. The author presents several hypotheses, yet they lack sufficient support from sources. Moreover, there is a dearth of references and additional information that would assist the reader in comprehending the context to which the author is alluding. Additionally, it remains unclear to which healthcare system the author is referring, as the circumstances regarding AI standards vary across countries.
