The author has tried to do a good study. However, to improve the quality of the article so that it meets the standards of scientific work, this article has several notes.

1. The abstract needs to be given a brief explanation of the research method used.
2. Several sentences need to display a better grammatical arrangement of sentences. For that, the writer needs to ask for help from a linguist.
3. In the discussion section, it is necessary to discuss more recent findings. Or did you need help finding the latest reference sources? Please explain.
4. In the conclusion section, it is also necessary to convey the shortcomings and constraints of the research. This is important to provide ongoing research potential.
5. References need to be updated. It is essential to ensure that this research follows current academic discussions.
