

Review of: "Sustainable Development In Southeast Asia: Lessons, Partnerships, and English"

Norhafiza Mohd Hed<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universiti Pendidikan Sultan Idris

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall, the paper addresses an interesting and timely topic. However, some major revisions are needed before it can be published.

1. The title needs to be rewritten to represent the whole idea of this article.
2. The article tries to achieve too many things at the same time. The authors need to narrow down the research focus.
3. The article lacks a literature review, methodological part, and empirical analysis.
4. The article cannot be considered a scientific paper as it does not contain proper references and citations.
5. Please provide an in-depth discussion on the Southeast Asia Ministerial Forum.

With the major changes, I believe that this paper can make a valuable contribution to the field.