

Review of: "Time evolution and convergence of simple migration models"

Paolo Lauriola

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Unfortunately, I'm not a modelist, even though I investigated the drivers of human migration patterns in relation to climate change.

As such, I think such an article could benefit a larger audience, if author could show the practical consequences of what he ended up with. In such a way, somebody else could try to implement and verify the article's conclusions.