The article is interesting, well-structured, and has a solid and coherently presented research methodology. The bibliographic references are up-to-date and offer an analysis regarding the justification of the seven research hypotheses, simultaneously serving as a comparative analysis of its results. In this regard, I believe that some aspects should be revisited in the discussion section. However, I mention that it is necessary for what is found in the practical implications section to be moved to the conclusions part, and what the authors introduced in the conclusions section is rather a discussion about the study's limitations and future research possibilities.
