

Peer Review

Review of: "Colocation of Seaweed Aquaculture at Offshore Windfarms: Policy Opportunities and Barriers in the UK"

Shannon Fluharty¹

1. Ramboll (Denmark), Copenhagen, Denmark

The overall writing style should be vastly improved before publication. Many of the sentences are wordy or do not make sense in the context of their chapters/sections. Certain sentences have been commented on in the attached file.

I think the paper goes into vague detail on many aspects of both the seaweed aquaculture and offshore wind industries when the main issue for widespread co-location is operation and maintenance and permitting barriers. Please discuss solutions or steps in the policy reform section to support the growth of co-location.

Attachments: available at <https://doi.org/10.32388/0QOTRU>

Declarations

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.