Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The following points must be considered: 1) Consider providing a brief overview of the current challenges, innovations, and challenges of the proposed approach. 2) Provide a more detailed explanation of the approach, including its underlying principles and how it differs from traditional databases. Consider including diagrams or illustrations to help readers visualize the concepts. 3) Provide more in-depth examples or case studies to illustrate how blockchain is currently being implemented in these areas and the potential benefits it offers. 4) Discuss the challenges and limitations associated with implementation, such as scalability issues and regulatory concerns. Addressing these challenges will provide a more balanced perspective on the feasibility and practicality. 5) Provide a cost-benefit analysis considering factors such as initial investment, maintenance costs, and long-term savings. 6) The conclusion effectively summarizes the key points discussed in the manuscript. Consider reiterating the transformative potential and emphasizing the need for continued research and collaboration to realize its full benefits.
