

Review of: "A Comprehensive Examination of the Practice of Outsourcing within the Framework of International Business in the Contemporary Era of the 21st Century"

Josep Maria Arauzo-Carod

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is an article covering an interesting topic deserving additional research. Nevertheless, this paper would benefit from a more accurate proof-reading and, specially, from a clearer approach in terms of current literature gaps in this literature and the way in which the paper could fill them. In this sense, current version is very general, without a clear focus and not following a well-defined path in terms of objectives and research questions, so readers may not be aware about the contribution of the paper.

I would also suggest to answer some questions like why is outsourcing more important for developing countries than for developed ones? or why productivity improvements are not the same across all set of countries?

Please summarize challenges described in section 3 and then develop them.