

Review of: "[Mini Review] Role of Mango in Immune System"

Ahmad Raza¹

¹ National Institute for Biotechnology and Genetic Engineering

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript is well written, but it will be better if the authors add some images presenting the role of different components of mangos in the immune system. It is also suggested that a table should be added presenting previous studies on the use of mango in the immune system and the dose/amount of mango used, with a response in quantifiable units.