The introduction is good, but it needs editing and should be written in line with the goals of the manuscript. The goals of your work are very general. It is better to state a series of more specific goals.

I would like to see more support for why would you used this research

Overall, the research aims at the end of introduction should be fully supported by the preceding text. The aims should be such that the results can be objectively evaluated

You mentioned the repetition of results and analysis in the discussion section, try to remove duplicates, Express the discussion in a specialized and comprehensive manner and use the reasons, strengths, and weaknesses of other studies. Try to write a strong and specific discussion
