Having reviewed your manuscript, I found the topic to be interesting. However, it reads more like a good report than an original article. In your abstract, refrain from using abbreviations. Additionally, ensure that you include the significant findings of the study. Consider rewriting the keywords for better clarity. Don't forget to add references to sections 1.2 and 1.2. Could you specify the type of article your paper is? Also, remember that in the discussion section, it's common practice to compare the obtained results with other studies.
