The author made a great effort to bring us an interesting text with an intriguing topic. The article is written in a clear style, with plenty of examples that help us better understand the main points. We have few suggestions. The first one is to present the written in a more organized/structured way: 1. to determine the goal&goals author had before him, from specific to general ones, 2. in order to follow the author's thought more easily, it would be useful for the reader to know in advance which key terms will be covered. Also, it would be wise to operationalise those terms. (When I say egoism, egotism, narcissism..., I mean... Egoism, egotism, narcissism ... plays importation for the psychotherapy process ... explain).
