

Review of: "The Psychological Impact of Leisure and Rehabilitation Activities in Children With Autism: A Delphi Approach"

Mounia Elhaddadi¹

¹ Université Ibn Tofail

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Very interesting way of presenting the role of leisure and rehabilitation activities in children with autism, including a new range of expressive terms for the emotional, expressive, and psychological realities in autistic children's lives. The powerful point of this article is the revelation that indoor climbing is the main activity that improves autistic children's social and individual skills. The final presentation of the manuscript must improve significantly.