

Review of: "Neuropsychiatric and Social Consequences of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder in Females"

Susmita Halder

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is interesting and discussions on female ADHD are much needed.

Presentation of article was good, however, where the symptoms and characteristics were described, more explanations and evidences could be better. Lie, it was presented female ADHD are different in certain aspects, but what is the underlying process could be elaborated.

Also, some more specific intervention could be mentioned in context of treatment and therapy.

Structure wise, the article could be divided in few sub sections.

Overall, it is a relevant topic to present.