

Review of: "Sociodemographic Determinants of Gender Disparity in Dengue Fever Diagnosis and Treatment"

Andrew Bauleni¹

¹ ICHI, University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences, United States

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The exploration of gender disparities in dengue fever is significant, given the rising incidence of the disease and the existing gaps in healthcare access and outcomes. The use of a large sample size and comprehensive data analysis enhances the validity of the findings. The manuscript clearly articulates its aims and objectives, providing a solid framework for the study. The lack of significant differences in outcomes between genders is a notable finding, indicating potential strengths in the healthcare system being examined.