

Review of: "Selection of an engineering institution: Students' perceptions of choice characteristics and suitability under the COVID-19 pandemic"

Sabarish Rajagopalan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Engineering institutions in India have been severely impacted by COVID-19. It's a thoughtful and in-depth article on the under-researched topic of engineering institution selections. It is preferable to highlight the most significant obstacles and difficulties so that readers may immediately understand your contribution. The research piece is created using a survey with questions and is assessed using statistical analysis. Overall, a superb article on a subject worthy further exploration.