The originality of the text portrays in a light and creative way, but at the same time deep and reflective, the paradox of identity. The articulation between literary fiction and philosophical concepts are brought in a coherent and relevant way, evidencing important contemporary philosophers for the theme in question. The importance of reflection and debate on sexual identity and gender contextualize the plot of the text, inserting the reader in this narrative configuration. Overall, I liked the text and thank you for the opportunity to comment it!
