

Review of: "Supply Chain Fraud Prediction with Machine Learning and Artificial intelligence"

Amita Sharma

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is a good quality research on supply chain fraud prediction. Machine learning procedures are followed as per typical machine learning workflow and model validations across different models seem stable and consistent.

The result of the paper looks reliable due to the fact that the cross-validation standards were followed properly.

I recommend the publication of this research paper.