

Review of: "Revisiting the challenges of ozone depletion from a prospective LCA perspective"

Ziyang Lou¹

¹ Shanghai Jiaotong University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The methodology section of this paper provides a valuable overview of the challenges involved in ozone depletion impact assessment methodology in LCA and highlights the need for continuous monitoring and improved modelling to better understand the links between different impact categories. However, there are still areas for improvement, the scope of the assessment needs to be expanded, there are too few endpoint characterisation, and the structure of the article needs to be improved.