

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Pyogenic bacterial infections due to MyD88 deficiency

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base. Pyogenic bacterial infections due to MyD88 deficiency. ORPHA:183713

Pyogenic bacterial infection due to MyD88 deficiency is a primary immunodeficiency characterized by increased susceptibility to pyogenic bacterial infections, including invasive pneumococcal, invasive staphylococcal and pseudomonas disease.