I have the following concerns about this paper:

1. The objectives are not clearly explained and are not clearly articulated. Instead of just simply stating that it is intended to explore a subject, it should be clearly stated or described what will be achieved by exploring the subject.
2. The sample size is small. There also doesn't seem to have been much consideration given to attempting to avoid sampling bias. The shortcomings in the size of the sample and how it was selected unfavourably affect the generalisability of findings.
3. The paper identifies problems without proposing or providing any solutions to these problems.
