

Review of: "Tomatoes Unveiled: A Comprehensive Exploration from Cultivation to Culinary and Nutritional Significance"

Saima Rubab¹

¹ Lahore medical and dental college

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Comments for editor

The manuscript entitled Tomatoes Unveiled: A Comprehensive Exploration from Cultivation to Culinary and Nutritional Significance has been reviewed. The question addressed by the original research work is relevant to the journal scope and is interesting. The paper is well written and the text is clear and easy to read. The conclusion is consistent with the evidence provided and well addressed the question. The paper includes figures that help to aid in a better understanding of the paper. However, there are some scientific mistakes and grammatical mistakes in the manuscript that need improvement to enhance the quality of the manuscript. Overall recommended as minor revision requested and after improving these comments the paper is recommended for publication in this journal.

Comments to authors

Title

The title is concise and informative but still needs improvement to produce a good sound.

Keywords

Please add some strong key words

Abstract

The abstract is concise, factual, and states briefly the purpose of the research, the principal results and major conclusions. Please check for some grammatical mistakes in this section.

Introduction

The introduction chapter states the objectives of the work and provides a suitable background, and it seems good that a detailed literature survey was avoided and focuses on the main background of the study.

Please add some latest and relevant citations and also check for some grammatical mistakes.

Materials and methods

This portion provided a sufficient detailed methodology followed.

Results and Discussion

Results are clear concise and well presented. However, some grammatical mistakes are present that need improvement. Check all figures number it must be present in the text.

The figures are good and presented well and clear please also check for captions provided for each figure.

The discussion section is written well and explores the significance of the results of the work.Conclusion

The main conclusion of the study is presented well and stands alone or forms a subsection of a Discussion or Results. Please also provide a recommendation at the end of the section.

References

Please ensure that every reference cited in the text is also present in the reference list. I observed, that some reference page number and volume etc are missing provide it. Follow the general guideline of the Journal for references.