

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Fenestrated Capillary

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Fenestrated Capillary. NCI Thesaurus. Code C32595.

A type of capillary that is characterized by the presence of circular pores that penetrate the endothelium covered with a continuous basal lamina, and is most commonly found in the intestinal mucosa, renal glomeruli, pancreas, and endocrine glands.