Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a very useful article, however, the issue of environment and waste separation is one of the priorities of planning and policies in many countries, and this article will help the policymakers in the study country make better decisions.

Some suggestions to improve the study:

- The review of the texts has been done well, it is better to use more recent references.
- It is better to provide more complete explanations about the validity and reliability of the researcher-made tool.
- In which table is N used in the sentence below?

From the table above, N represents the number of cases, the mean performance, the standard deviation, and the estimated standard error of the mean.
