

Peer Review

Review of: "Indian Health Ministry Refuses to Make Cancer a Notifiable Disease Despite ICMR's Recommendation"

Bhani Kongkham¹

1. Indian Institute of Technology Delhi, New Delhi, India

The article addresses a very important issue in the current scenario. It highlights the flaws in the healthcare system and the need for intervention.

However, it would be nice for the authors to elaborate more on the factors causing cancer, purely from an awareness point of view. For instance, the line "These include issues like smoking, mineral dust like asbestos, and other exposures." needs to be more elaborate with proper citations.

In the line "This is because a latest report now calls India the 'cancer capital of the world' as cancer cases are on a sharp rise", please indicate the values or percentage of rise over the years to provide better clarity.

Declarations

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.