

Review of: "A Survey Study on Women Entrepreneurship in the BTR Area of Assam"

Tulika Tripathi¹

¹ Central University of Gujarat

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a very important area of research, though the paper lacks academic rigor. What is the data source for Table 1? What is the rationale for selecting 50 percent of the sample? The language of the paper needs to be improved. There are no results for Q13 to Q16. In fact, the presentation of results is not good. According to the research question, relevant items should have been analysed using cross tabulation. The paper is analytically weak. The entire paper is written in points; there is no flow. The review of literature can be thematic, but literature needs to be cited to build the arguments.

Discussion and conclusion should not be written in points. I suggest the author to read a few papers and follow the same format.