

Review of: "Antimicrobial Ayurveda Crops as Superfoods for Export, Conservation & Farmers' Benefit"

Nazariyah Yahaya¹

¹ Universiti Sains Islam Malaysia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Very short review and not really comprehensive. It seems like botanical information and economic views, but less about Ayurvedic crops. The title highlights the antimicrobial, but the results show antioxidant properties. A lot of information could be added to improve this article, such as remedies to increase the absorption of this superfood in the human digestive system, and how to increase the lifespan of these herbs for export purposes.