Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The introduction is well articulated, but the reasons (gap to be filled) for the study need to be more attended to.

The link between the variables under the conceptual review needs to be touched. The theoretical review needs to follow: the propounder, year of application, and relevance of the theory to this work.

Methodology is fairly done.

Discussion of findings needs to be properly done and linked.

The conclusion and recommendations should align with the study objectives.

The research work should be accepted subject to necessary corrections.
