An interesting article, but the analysis is only descriptive. I would like to suggest the following ways to improve the article:

1. The abstract must be shortened (max. 200 words), and the ideas expressed more concisely;
2. References to the specialized literature related to transport corridors, their logistical importance and consequences for global trade, would increase the quality of the study;
3. The study should be put in the current context, and supported with concrete data regarding the evolution of the volume of freight.
