The manuscript fits into the mission of the journal, with the inclusion of the principal components and acceptable language, grammar and syntax.

The abstract accurately reflects the content of the article.

The problem is clearly stated and well data-supported, with references made to other work in the field and a cultural context analysis.

The conclusions and recommendations of a Culturally Sensitive Code of Ethics include the main values and principles that are consistent with the literature but it would be necessary to discuss and justify the option for the Catholic perspective, in the light of the secularization claims. Coherence and consistency between Catholic principles and values and secular ethical codes must be emphasized.
