

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Testicular teratoma

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base. Testicular teratoma. ORPHA:363483

A rare neoplastic disease characterized by the presence of a testicular tumor composed of several, well-differentiated or immature, tissues derived from one or more of the 3 germinal layers. Patients typically present unilateral (occasionally bilateral) painless testicular swelling or a palpable testicular nodule/mass.