Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Clarity in Figures and Diagrams: While the schematic project, work principle, and algorithms are explained well in text, some figures, such as Fig. 2 and Fig. 3, might benefit from more detailed labels or additional annotations to enhance clarity.

Methodology Section: The paper lacks a dedicated section describing the methodology in detail. Providing more information on how the experiments were conducted, the sample size, and any statistical analysis conducted would strengthen the methodology.

Discussion Section: The paper could benefit from a dedicated discussion section where the authors interpret the results, compare them with expectations, and discuss any limitations or potential improvements for future work.

Conclusion Section: The conclusion could be more concise and should reiterate the key findings and their significance. Additionally, it would be helpful to mention potential avenues for future research.

References Formatting: The references section needs attention. Some references appear incomplete, and there are variations in citation styles. Ensuring consistency in formatting and completeness is crucial.
