

Review of: "Neuropsychiatric and Social Consequences of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder in Females"

Anaísa Abrahão

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article has relevance to the field by highlighting the experiences of girls with ADHD. The references are current and interesting, and may help future researchers.

As a contribution, I bring some suggestions:

- relative to the method, since this is a literature review, I think it would be interesting to inform the question that directed the search; the words/writers, the period investigated, and the methodological characteristics of the studies;
- These data could be discussed, highlighting the trends and gaps in the area, and could complement this work, which is already quite important.

Thank you for the opportunity of this evaluation!