The article needs more development.

The abstract needs to be more explanatory, in addition to the objective, it is necessary to mention the theme, the purpose of the study, the methodological design, the main results and the originality of the study.

The review of the Metaverse topic needs to be more in-depth, explaining in detail its importance and which previous study(s) support it.

The study needs a more in-depth discussion of the topic and the impact of Metaverse on the industry.

The study does not add scientific knowledge, it would be important for the authors to opt for a methodological design and carry out a study, for example, qualitative or quantitative of secondary data to add value to their article.

The study's conclusions are very vague, which is to be expected because the study does not have a robust scientific component.

This study needs to be improved, and it is suggested that the authors opt to carry out an empirical study, which will allow them to obtain results that can be discussed with the existing literature. It is suggested that the authors look for some studies in indexed databases to better understand how to construct a scientific article. It is also hoped that the authors will carry out a more exhaustive literature review to frame the subject with the study.

Good Luck!
