

Review of: "Agritourism: a source for socio-economic transformation in developing economies"

Gift Muresherwa<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Cape Peninsula University of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript/paper is relevant and a good read. However, the authors need to take note of the following comments:

1. The abstract's first sentence should have started with brief background of this study rather than delve into the methods
2. The authors are advised to provide more citations to back up some of the facts which were provided. An example, in the conceptual framework section, a model for agritourism was provided (Figure 1) and the authors are not stating the sources for the presented variables.
3. The focus for this paper was developing contexts and It could have been to compare developing countries with Zimbabwe which could have enhanced empirical finding

All the best