

Review of: "The Young Pioneers of Cuba: The Formation of Cuban Citizens through Civic Education"

Jhon Jairo Mosquera Rodas<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidad Cooperativa de Colombia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

One of the most interesting applications of civic ethics is civic education, so I find the article interesting, but I would suggest:

To place qualitative statistics that show with data what is described in the conclusions, this gives more solidity to the article. There you have several programs to use:

<https://www.capterra.co/directory/31297/qualitative-data-analysis/pricing/free/software>

Also, it is necessary to keep in mind that civility is a consequence of the satisfaction of social needs; it cannot be imposed only by the educational act.

Best regards,