I reviewed the article titled "Food and Feeding of the Atlantic Mudskipper Periophthalmus barbarus in the Ogbo-Okolo Mangrove Forest of the Santa Barbara River, Bayelsa State, Niger Delta, Nigeria." It's an interesting paper overall, but there are areas that need improvement. While the idea is intriguing, there are significant flaws in the clarity of language, with occasional technical terms and grammatical errors hindering understanding. The results are confusing, and the discussion lacks depth, with little comparison to prior research. The current version focuses too much on repeating the results. Despite these issues, it's clear that the author has put significant effort into the manuscript, which provides valuable insights to the field.
