

Review of: "Strong Machine Learning: a Way Towards Human-Level Intelligence"

Maryam kheir Abadi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The overall writing is OK. However, it could be improved if a native speaker rewrote or rephrased some of the paragraphs, especially the abstract.

At the end of the abstract, it is claimed that a new method will be introduced, which could not be found. Therefore, I could not see any originality in this paper. Some of the references are very old for this topic. My final thought is that this paper should clarify if any new work exists in this research or not. Then the whole paper could go under review.