I think there is a need for a bit more editing and refinement of this paper, particularly in connection with what the statistics can and cannot show. For example, I think more work is needed on multicollinearity as I suspect that your variables are not as orthogonal as you might think and your estimates correspondingly less accurate than you report -in contrast to the accuracy implied by the reporting of estimates to many decimal places. I would also like to know more about the data collection process. Overall, while I think the research was worth undertaking and the policy conclusions of interest to policy makers across the region, I think a second draft is needed.
