

Review of: "Politics of Representation in Rural Tourism Micro-Entrepreneurship"

Bhakti Nur Avianto¹

¹ Universitas Nasional Jakarta

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The presentation of the writing in the manuscript is very interesting, presented precisely and systematically arranged, starting from the introduction, which is written with a clear sentence structure, detailed methodology, clear research results, critical discussion, and strong conclusions. It is hoped that only a few additional notes can be added to the abstract regarding connectivity and digital networks for further research. As can be seen in this article, the existence of digital connectivity and networks encourages innovation, entrepreneurship, and economic growth, which has impacts beyond other rural tourism micro-entrepreneurship areas.