Very interesting topic with very important potential.

It seems to us that the theoretical framework supporting the research is lacking, the theories supporting the research question and underpinning the research.

The formulated objectives and the research question should be perfectly aligned.

The presentation of results lacks the pragmatism to realize the research objectives. (3 constructs: 1) soccer fans, 2) stadium attendance, 3) trust in other people).

Results not completely oriented towards the objectives (specific groups are mentioned)

Discussion of the results very weak. It is present in the conclusions section. Discussion section is absent.

Recommendations and implications for management are lacking
