

Review of: "Aquaponics Unveiled: Efficient Household Farming"

Lim Whay Chuin

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Review of "Aquaponics Revealed: Effective Household Agriculture"

1. The abstract should provide a summary of the review question being addressed since it is an introductory paper, the implication or result of the major studies reviewed, and conclusions drawn.
2. The introduction of this topic focuses on why this topic is important. The author should provide the overview to the reader with the background information about the aquaponic system rather than introduce with the occurrence of nitrogen cycle in aquaponic system. As the saying goes, if you don't know you won't love.
3. APA formatting and citation are not shown such as the image presented after the explanatory paragraph and the source of an image is presented if adapted. Besides, reference citations should be stated in the body of the article for each sentence or statement adapted from the other research studies.
4. The discussions are not well-honed according to the objectives of the study by comparing earlier findings, implications of study results, and recommendations. The list of references implied that lack of studies and is not up to date.
5. The specifications of the various pumps used in aquaponic systems can be summarized in a table including the usage, model, brand, and manufacturing country.