

Review of: "Graft Angiography Through Right Radial Artery: A Retrospective Cohort Study"

Mauricio Pedraza

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I read with great interest the article by Hashmi et al. titled "Graft Angiography Through the Right Radial Artery: A Retrospective Cohort Study." Although the study is retrospective, I found it very informative and with good data analysis. These findings demonstrate a high procedural success rate and a relatively low incidence of complications, supporting the use of the right radial artery as a viable and effective access route for graft angiography.