Thank you for your interesting work. The research is interesting and the papers' structure shows a logical development. The introductory section should focus more on the novelty/originality of the paper. Which is the contribution of the current manuscript to the related literature? Also, Introduction and Literature Review parts lack clarity in expressing and developing arguments. Discussion points are very weak and no proper citation. Should be developed. The importance of results does not arise. I consider that the paper can be improved in the Conclusion section by clearly presenting the answers to the main objectives of the research.
